

ANDREW McCABE BIO

Andrew G. McCabe was named as the Acting Director of the FBI on May 9, 2017. Prior to this role, he served as the Deputy Director where he oversaw all FBI domestic and international investigative and intelligence activities. Mr. McCabe also served as Associate Deputy Director. In this position, he oversaw the management of all FBI personnel, budget, administration, and infrastructure.

Mr. McCabe began his career as a special agent with the FBI in 1996, where he was assigned to the New York Field Office where he investigated and supervised organized crime matters. In 2006, Mr. McCabe shifted his focus to counterterrorism matters when he was promoted to be a supervisor at FBI Headquarters in the Counterterrorism Division. In 2008, Mr. McCabe was promoted to assistant special agent in charge of the Washington Field Office's Counterterrorism Division where he received the FBI Director's Award for his work on the 56th Presidential Inauguration.

In May 2011, Mr. McCabe returned to FBI Headquarters as Deputy Assistant Director of Counterterrorism Division Operations Branch I, and the following year, he was promoted to Assistant Director of the Counterterrorism Division.

In October 2013, Mr. McCabe was appointed as Executive Assistant Director of the National Security Branch where he ensured the FBI successfully executed its primary mission to defend the United States from national security threats. In September 2014, he was named Assistant Director in Charge of the FBI's Washington Field Office where he oversaw all programs in the nation's second largest FBI field division

Before entering the FBI, Mr. McCabe worked as a lawyer in private practice. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Duke University in 1990 and Juris Doctor from Washington University School of Law in 1993. In 2010, Mr. McCabe was certified by the Director of National Intelligence as a senior intelligence officer, and in December 2014, Mr. McCabe was awarded the Presidential Rank Award for Meritorious Service.